

Test Prep Sessions

The Academic Doctor can deliver these fun and innovative test prep programs to your students on the days and times that are convenient for your school, using your computer lab or library. Small classes ensure personal attention for each student, however we are able to manage groups up to 50 students with a high level of efficacy. Also, we can conduct weekend and evening training sessions to meet the needs of your student(s).

Our Courses: ACT, SAT, PERT, GRE, ASVAB, GED, PSAT and some End Of the Course (EOC) exams

Choosing the proper test prep course can be as challenging as taking the actual test. As students learn to equip themselves for either exam, there are several considerations that we will help streamline test preparation.

1. We require all participants to participate in an Academic Physical (assessment) to determine how much help the student needs: The first step to any test prep is to take a whole, timed exam and score it. It can be intimidating, but it's a useful exercise.

Knowing a student's strengths and challenges on the exam before any prep allows for an assessment of how much improvement can be expected.

The scored exam will also give you a sense of how well a student performs on various sections, which can help determine whether the student should pursue a broad or focused style of prep course. For example, if a student has a respectable score on all sections except math, then he or she might decide to find a study course that emphasizes only that weak section.

2. We will offer you several packages to choose from depending on your need. No two packages are the same. You must decide on how much to spend: The test prep courses can range in cost from $500 to nearly $2,000. Becoming familiar with the level and type of assistance a student needs can help weed out the extremes on the test prep financial spectrum and allow you to budget for the sessions way in advance.

3. We pride ourselves on understand the student's learning style: (VARK) Taking stock of a student's learning style can save time and money. While individual tutoring can be an invaluable resource for almost any student preparing for the SAT or ACT (any test), some might feel a high level of accountability and stress from one-on-one sessions.

Some students may feel more comfortable in-group tutoring sessions or larger classes where it's easier to blend in with other students. Other students might benefit from the back-and-forth interaction of small-group or individual tutoring.

In general, however, individual tutoring is the only way to garner wholly personalized attention to the unique topical and test-taking skills of a given student is to know his or hers best learning style.

4. We ask that our student patient's understand the difference between both commercial and noncommercial programs: Commercial test prep companies offer the security of brand names and courses developed over time, but a noncommercial provider such as the Academic Doctor will offer a more personalized customer service.

5. Student patient's are allowed to choose between single session and multi-week instruction: There are myriad course options, ranging from single hour long face to face group courses, to more comprehensive one-on-one, personalized programs with upwards two to three hours of tutoring per week.

Typically, prep courses include 18 hours of group instruction, with additional hours of recommended structured practice. Before selecting a program, students need to consider how much instruction and self-study time they will need to adequately prepare for the exam. Students need to look at their current course load. Additionally, those students who participate in sports need not to miss their scheduled tutoring sessions.

In total, students should plan to spend two hours a day on practice prep starting six to eight weeks before they plan to take the final test. The practice prep sessions are broken down into (8) fifteen-minute sessions.

6. There are no hidden fees: Material will be provided for all participants. There are several additional books available for a minimum fee of $15.00.

Features

- Expert Academic instruction – Video tutorials on score-raising strategies for every tested topic delivered by expert, Academic Doctor – certified trained teachers
- Full-length practice tests – 4 full-length practice tests for the SAT
- - Unlimited access to practice questions and websites that offer free tutoring online lessons accessible via all mobile devices: smartphones, tablets, and laptops

Best guarantee in the industry – Higher score guaranteed!!!